(Look at the flag.) If they do not recognise these flags, they could look in appropriate reference books / on the internet. These may name the places / countries in English and therefore teachers could introduce the following: Caerdydd (Cardiff) / Cymru (Wales) Llundain (London) / Lloegr (England) Paris (Paris) / Ffrainc (France) Y Swistir (Switzerland) Pisa (Pisa) / Yr Eidal (Italy) Africa (Africa). Pupils could then look in a Welsh atlas to try to work out in which direction Crad has travelled from Wales. Individual maps could be distributed and Crad's journey could be plotted under the heading, Taith Crad (Crad's journey). Pupils could also search for more information about these countries / places.

They could explain to the group who they are and describe their way of life, using patterns and vocabulary found in this book. • Pupils could spin and weave wool, make baskets and design Celtic patterns. They could also make a model of a Celtic village or a collage to depict a Celtic village. As they undertake this work, they could use the language patterns that are listed in the teachers' guidelines.
